

Our prediction:

What really happened:

Our comments

This is our description from yesterday: "The resistance from 11.130 should hold the market again... In the first part of the session little upward moves can still manifest but later in the session we see some strong downward signals." Like you could see, the prediction was again right and at least one SHORT trade for 50 pips profit would have been possible and in concordance with our forecast.