

Our prediction:

What really happened:

Our comments

During yesterday's session we saw an upward move to 10.060, a break of this resistance and another grow to next resistance at 10.130. After that some accumulation followed by a very strong decline in the last hour (an unexpected move we'd say). Anyway a LONG trade for the first part of the session would have been normal and in concordance with our forecast.